

ATHOS BOUYOUKAS

Currently I am living in Doha, Qatar and recently accepted a job as Vice-President of Al Mal Bank, a newly formed Islamic investment banking company. In my role, I am responsible for creating a back and middle office, complete with trade settlement and exception processing procedures, as well as producing the daily profit/loss and risk calculation for the entire bank. In a more front office capacity, I am also responsible for the development of alpha-generation models and developing use of algorithms in executing trades on an electronic platform.

I received my undergraduate degree from SIUC in Economics (with a minor in Political Science) in May of 1992. I received my master of science degree in Financial Markets and Trading from the Stuart School of Business – Illinois Institute of Technology, in February of 1997. I have worked in the financial markets for the better part of fifteen years, ranging from the Chicago Board Options Exchange to Northern Trust, Bank of America, UBS, and ABN AMRO.
